

CARRIE NATION GETS CONFESSION

Norfolk Couldn't Find It Convenient to Let Her Have Hall to Lecture In.

TELLS JONES HE IS LOST

Inform Well-Known Saloon-keeper That He Is Headed for Warmer Region.

NORFOLK, VA., January 9.—Carrie A. Nation, the Kansas saloon-smasher, of Guthrie, O. T., arrived in town this morning. Her mission here was a peaceful one, her visit being prompted by a desire to see Norfolk and the Jamestown Exposition grounds, although she handed out a good deal of advice on the side, especially in the exposition offices.

She arrived on the boat from Washington, and early in the day called on Mayor Riddick, but the chief magistrate of the city was not in his office. His confidential secretary, Mrs. Hart, received the reformer very cordially. From the Mayor's office she went to call on Chief of Police Roush.

Mrs. Nation was accompanied by Judge James H. Loh, of Harrisburg, Pa., on her pilgrimage about the city. The Judge and Mrs. Nation have been acquaintances for a long time.

She visited the Exposition grounds, as well as the offices, and was much impressed with what she saw. But she does not much like the exposition. She thinks exhibitions too "noisy."

Tells Girls to Be Good.

The young women employed in the exposition offices were objects of much concern to her. They collected around her in large numbers, and she advised them to be good. Mrs. Nation made an effort to get a hall in which to lecture here, but was unsuccessful, and therefore returned to Washington to-night, but hopes to return within a week to lecture. She wants to help rid Norfolk of saloons.

"Even if I can't get a hall for Sunday," declared Mrs. Nation, "I shall come back to Norfolk at some future time. I want to introduce myself to the people of this city, and I want to help them down the whiskey traffic, which is eating men's souls, damping them, and sending them to hell."

Mrs. Nation, accompanied by Judge James H. Loh, of Harrisburg, Pa., late with the Standard Oil Company at Washington, D. C., whom she introduced to the Norfolk W. C. T. U. this morning as "a victim of the liquor habit," attracted considerable attention in the downtown section of the city today. On several occasions she stopped men on the street with cigarettes in their mouths, and said:

"Cigarette fiend, take that poison out of your mouth."

"Carrie Nation," screamed one man at the woman.

"See how they know me when I say cigarettes," said Mrs. Nation with a smile.

Meets James Jones.

"That is James Jones," she asked Mrs. Nation, when she met a man who she said was standing in front of his Main Street saloon, was pointed out to her this morning.

"Yes, that's him," declared Judge Loh. "I must meet that man," declared Mrs. Nation, catching her shawl about her shoulders and walking up to where Mr. Jones stood.

Catching Mr. Jones's hand and shaking it here, the introduction had actually passed, Mrs. Nation looked him in the eye and said:

"Why are you in the saloon business?" "It's my living," said Mr. Jones.

"It's your dying," retorted Mrs. Nation, "and it's sending your soul to hell."

Mrs. Nation proceeded to lecture Mr. Jones in such a voice that a small crowd soon gathered on the side. Mr. Jones, who had first taken off his hat and declared pleasure at shaking Mrs. Nation's hand, finally told her to mind her business and go on. But still she remained, continuing her lecture in loud tones.

TOBACCO DELIVERIES.

Association Warehouse at Amelia Doing a Rushing Business.

AMELIA, C. H. VA., January 9.—Very large deliveries of tobacco were made here today. The association warehouse was opened, and though not yet generally known, that it is open, was kept busy all day receiving tobacco.

It is kept open every day hereafter, instead of every other day, as was done last year. The gains made by members of the association on tobacco sold have paid a handsome revenue, running as high in some cases as sixty per cent. over the market.

A Bold Step.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections to the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broad-leaf and open to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated Golden Medical Discovery.

Thus he has taken his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits, and made them remedies of known composition.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown himself a man of such confidence that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest scrutiny.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomachs, liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases, give a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been published, containing the standard medical works of the different schools of practice, containing very numerous prescriptions, and writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing the "Golden Medical Discovery" as the best of all medicines for the treatment of all diseases of the stomach, liver, and bowels.

One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same.

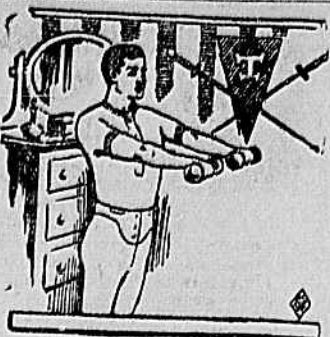

It will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral salts or other poisonous or injurious agents, and that they are made from native medicinal roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak and debilitated women, were employed long years ago by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their women.

In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants in the world, the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, was taken from the Indians.

As made up by Dr. Pierce, it is a most valuable medicine for regulating all the most important functions, correcting the bowels, promoting, invigorating and restoring, and giving the system a new lease of life.

It is a most valuable medicine for the treatment of all diseases of the stomach, liver, and bowels, and for the treatment of all diseases of the system.

It is a most valuable medicine for the treatment of all diseases of the system, and for the treatment of all diseases of the body.

NOBLETT DIES AFTER BRUTAL TREATMENT

Was Slugged by Highwayman and Robbed—Long Unconsciousness Before Death.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NORFOLK, VA., January 9.—Junius E. Noblett, the owner of the Norfolk Knitting Mills, slugged and robbed by a highwayman on Church Street, near Princess Anne Avenue, on the night of December 22, died at 3 o'clock this morning at the Norfolk Protestant Hospital.

Noblett, who had been unconscious after becoming delirious on being taken to the hospital the second time, the direct cause of his death, it seems, was a blow received in the back of the head, but it may require an autopsy to determine the nature of the injury that proved fatal. The coroner will examine his case.

Noblett, a Frenchman by birth, had been in the service of the cotton mills for twenty years, and he was regarded as an exceptionally good workman.

No arrests have been made in connection with the assault on him, and it is not known that the authorities of Norfolk county have any clue as to the highwayman, but the officers are working on the case.

BRAVE MAN DIES AT NORFOLK HOSPITAL

United States Government Gave Him Medal for Bravery at Cardenas.

NORFOLK, VA., January 9.—T. C. Cooney, a carpenter of the United States Navy, aged sixty-three years, and who received from the government a medal of honor for bravery on the United States torpedo-boat Winslow during the engagement of Cardenas, Cuba, in which Ensign North Hoxley was killed, died at the Naval Hospital here last night from paralysis.

Carpenter Cooney recently brought the monitor Florida here from Annapolis, Md., to be fitted up at this navy-yard for experiments. He was in the hospital Friday, suffering from what was thought to be improving when he was paralyzed.

The deceased was from Florida, and has relatives in Warrenton and Palatka, Fla.

Carpenter Cooney was a member of the Annapolis Lodge of Elks.

The Oyster Industry Increasing Greatly.

CHINCOTEAGUE, VA., January 9.—Mr. Wm. N. Conant, of the firm of W. N. Conant & Son, has recently sold out his interest in the hardware store to his sons, Henry and William, and will hereafter devote his time looking after the interest of his large oyster business.

Dr. Wm. M. Burwell, who has been taking a post graduate course in a medical college in New York City for the past month, has returned home, much to the delight of his many patients.

Dr. Burwell, of Floyd county, Va., is visiting his brother, Dr. Wm. M. Burwell, on Main Street.

On account of the great demand for oysters and clams and the numerous shipments that are being daily made from the point, the F. B. & W. Railroad Company have issued orders for the steamer Chincoteague to make three trips daily to Franklin City, instead of two, as has always been the custom.

Rev. E. T. Liddell, of Collinswood, N. Y., the new pastor of Union Baptist Church, moved his family to the island this week.

MRS. CLOVER FINED.

Charged With Taking a Muff From Norfolk Store.

NORFOLK, VA., January 9.—The case of Mrs. Bessie L. Clover, of Hampton, Va., charged with larceny of a fur muff valued at $10, the property of local merchant, was given a hearing in the Corporation Court today.

Mrs. Clover testified that she went into the store of the plaintiffs with a muff of her own; that she walked to the fur counter and laid her muff down while she was looking over some of the other muffs. Not seeing one that she desired to purchase, she picked up a muff, and put her hands in it, thinking it was her own. It belonged to the store. She started to walk out of the store, but was seized by several clerks, and was taken to the central police station.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty, and fixed the penalty at a fine of $5 and costs. The fine was paid.

BOLD ROBBERY IN ALEXANDRIA

Brazilian Knocked Down and His Money Torn From His Clothes.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

ALEXANDRIA, VA., January 9.—The grand jury of the United States Circuit Court for the Eastern District of Virginia this afternoon, after returning the following indictments, adjourned for the term: Augustus M. Morning, unlawfully carrying on business of a wholesale liquor dealer without paying the special tax; Augustus M. Morning, unlawfully omitting to make proper entries in distillers' books.

J. O. Patterson, carrying on the business of a wholesale liquor dealer without having paid the special tax; William G. Bohr, carrying on a retail liquor dealer's business without payment of the special tax.

A number of petit cases will be heard by that jury to-morrow morning. It is expected that this term of court will last until the end of the week.

Bold Assault and Robbery.

One of the boldest assaults and robberies that have occurred here recently took place at a late hour last night, when three highwaymen entered the little fruit and confectionery store of Manuel Tavares, a Brazilian, and at the point of a pistol, knocked him senseless to the floor, and after brutally assaulting him, robbed him of $32 and his pistol. The men tore Tavares' underclothing in order to get the money as it was secreted in his underclothing.

Tavares stated that just prior to the robbery two white men entered his place of business, and after purchasing seven or eight dollars' worth of fruit and tobacco, presented a ten-dollar bill in payment, and about this juncture of the transaction the three men sprang upon him. His wounds were dressed at the police station, and Tavares remained at police headquarters overnight, lest the robbers would attack him there. The men, he says, were white, but further than this he can give but a very meagre description of them.
